GOSPEL MEDITATION

Encourage Deeper Understanding of Scripture

Freedom properly defined is freedom properly understood. The Cambridge Dictionary tells us that it is, "the condition or right of being able or allowed to do, say, think, etc., whatever you want to, without being controlled or limited." That same dictionary defines liberty as, "the freedom to live, work, and travel as you want to." Both definitions sound very similar. Is there a difference between freedom and liberty? Many are accustomed to believing that freedom and liberty are interchangeable and simply involve possessing rights and privileges. For the Christian, however, there is a big difference between the two.

St. John Chrysostom directs that "the only person who is free is the one who lives for Christ." There are many other inspirational people throughout history who see freedom as something far greater than liberty. True and properly understood freedom has little to do with entitlement or self-promotion. For the believer, it is a matter of the heart and soul. Freedom (and liberty, for that matter), seen only in terms of the world, can quickly be taken away. The freedom spoken of by St. John Chrysostom can only be lost by personal choice. When one lives for Christ, they live in pursuit of virtues that enlighten one's soul (faith, hope, and love) and strengthen one's character (justice, fortitude, temperance, and prudence). Rather than having the ability to acquire or do more things, true freedom asks us to be detached. Privileges, rights, and responsibilities are important, but they do not define us.

The world is not always open to listening to the truth. "I am sending you like lambs among wolves," Jesus tells his disciples. The secular definitions of freedom and liberty are very attractive. They promise us a great deal. It is no wonder Jesus asks his disciples to travel with very little. The Gospel is not dependent upon things or anything those with worldly power or investment can say or do. When one chooses to live for Christ, they choose to live with peace. That's what true freedom will give us. If we do not want what Christ offers, we can close the door, and the messenger will walk away. Distracted by the lure of personal liberties, we risk losing our freedom. We will not have anything truly life-giving to share with others.

HERE'S THE WORD...

A Brief Commentary on the Gospel

14th SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME (Cycle C)

Isaiah 66:10-14c; Psalm 66:1-7, 16, 20; Galatians 6:14-18; Luke 10:1-9

God reveals His divine plan for humanity in the two Testaments; we read and relive the events of salvation history contained in the Old and New Testaments in the Church's Liturgy. The Catechism of the Catholic Church teaches that the Liturgy reveals the unfolding mystery of God's plan as we read the Old Testament in light of the New, and the New Testament in light of the Old (CCC 1094-1095).

In today's Gospel reading, Jesus sent His disciples on their first missionary journey. They were to go ahead of Him, visit towns in Judea as Jesus's envoys, and give testimony of His coming. The disciples of Jesus Christ then and now are the servants of God who labor in the world to spread the Gospel of salvation.

They serve Christ in bringing about the conversion of souls, setting those who receive Him on the path to eternal life, and announcing the "coming of Jesus Christ" in His promised return in glory. Christians are also called to be His envoys to the world, continuing Jesus' earthly ministry of justice, peace, love, and the hope of eternal salvation.

Justice, peace, and love are three of the foundation stones of Jesus' Kingdom of Heaven on earth, but we are unlikely always to experience the perfection of those ideals in service to the earthly Church.

The paradox is that the sinless Bride of Christ (the Church) is full of sinners. It isn't that the Church has failed, but there are faithful and failed servants within the Church engaged in the constant battle against sin.

However, no matter how hard the struggle, we must reconcile ourselves to the understanding that the fight to obtain justice, peace, and love on earth is not a lost cause.

The day will come when Christ returns to claim His Bride. At that time, the good and faithful servants will receive their reward, and everything promised will be completed in perfect justice, peace, and love in Christ's eternal kingdom.

"And the Word was made flesh...and dwelt among us."

Peace & Blessings,

Fr. Ken
