20th SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

Jesus said to his disciples: "I have come to set the earth on fire, and how I wish it were already blazing!" - Lk 12:49

Excerpts from the Lectionary for Mass ©2001, 1998, 1970 CCD.

WELCOME

With joy we welcome all who have gathered here with us to worship God.

"How good to sing praise to our God; how pleasant to give fitting praise." (Psalm 147:1)

Let us lift up our minds, hearts, and spirits to our loving and merciful God, from whom all good things come.

HERE'S THE WORD...

A Brief Commentary on the Gospel

Readings: Jeremiah 38:4-6, 8-10; Psalm 40:2-4, 17; Hebrews 12:1-4; Luke 12:49-53

Perseverance in Adversity

It is part of human nature to avoid what is unpleasant, whether it is undeserved suffering or punishment deserved for bad behavior. We want to hear our priests preach against the consequences of sin, but we do not want them to challenge us about the sins in our lives. It is also difficult for some of us to stand up for our faith and defend the teachings of the Church when those teachings are not "politically correct," according to the judgments of modern society. God asks us to persevere in adversity and to take a stand for what is righteous according to His Word. He promises that the eternal reward will outweigh any temporary discomfort.

In the First Reading, the prophet Jeremiah's enemies imprisoned him in a cistern as a punishment for prophesying Jerusalem's impending conquest and telling the people not to resist the Babylonian invaders. Jerusalem's coming destruction was God's divine judgment against her people for their many sins, including their acts of injustice, oppression of the poor, and disobedience to the commands of the Law in Yahweh's covenant. Despite his many persecutions, Jeremiah remained true to his mission to preach repentance and the acceptance of God's judgment.

Our Responsorial Psalm is a prayer that might have come from Jeremiah as he lay in the mud at the bottom of the cistern. The psalmist combines his lament concerning his sufferings with his thanks that God acts to defend His faithful servants, even in extreme situations. The "pit of destruction" and the "mud of the swamp" are poetic metaphors for the world of death that the psalmist sees opening before him. He believes God hears him and describes his rescue as being "raised up" or resurrected. He praises God in a "new song" in response to the new action of God coming to his deliverance. The message for us is that the psalmist's ability to give thanks even in his suffering is not purely a human response but a divine gift of God's presence when suffering is accompanied by faith and humble perseverance.

In the Second Reading, the inspired writer (believed to be St. Paul) used the metaphor of the difficulties when competing in a foot race. His point was to encourage the faithful not to follow the easy path but rather to make, if necessary, the painful decision to persevere in following the Gospel of salvation. He compares a Christian's life to a sports arena with the faithful participating in a race. Our audience is "a cloud of witnesses," numbered among the Communion of Saints who are watching us from Heaven and urging us on. They are praying for our victory over the forces of evil in the world as we complete the contest that will end in the reward of eternal salvation. The passage reminds us that we are never truly alone, but always have those who care about us and pray for us in our struggles.

In our Gospel Reading, Jesus presented His disciples with a difficult lesson. He told them that He had not come to bring peace but division in families and nations. Everyone must choose between Him and the world; there is no middle ground. Then, Jesus made a dramatic statement, saying He had come "to set the earth on fire!" In the Old Testament, fire was symbolic of purification, discernment, judgment, and a manifestation of the presence of God. St. John the Baptist warned that the Messiah was coming with "the Holy Spirit and fire" (Lk 3:16), and in Scripture, it is one of the most expressive symbols of the transforming energy of the Holy Spirit. In our Gospel reading, the fire Jesus referred to could be the coming of the Holy Spirit at Pentecost. His words might also refer to the refining and purifying fire that Jesus would light in His suffering, death, and Resurrection. In that series of events, He ignited and transformed the New Covenant people of God to pick up their crosses and follow Him in bringing about the Kingdom of Heaven on earth, the Holy New Covenant Universal Church.

Today's readings are relevant to us because we are making the same choices as Jeremiah, St. Paul, and Jesus' disciples in practicing our obedience of faith by serving the mission to which God has called us despite personal suffering. Are we willing to commit ourselves to Christ and His Church at the cost of our family relationships and secular standing, or do we deny Christ by valuing what is material, secularly acceptable, and temporal rather than eternal? The decision to submit to Christ may be painful for us in this life, but pain and suffering will count toward eternal salvation for both the ministerial priesthood (who bear the responsibility of teaching the Word of God and His Law) and the priesthood of believers. Our Divine Father will reward us, and our heavenly brothers and sisters will applaud us as they welcome us into the everlasting beatitude of Heaven.

"And the Word was made flesh...and dwelt among us."

Fr. Ken

GOSPEL MEDITATION

Encourage Deeper Understanding of Scripture

An inward transformation occurs in a person who decides to follow Jesus Christ. Things change. They see the world differently, understand their journey more deeply and profoundly, have their sights fixed on eternity and union with God and hold themselves to higher standards and virtues. It requires a conscious choice to be a Christian, and this choice must be renewed at least daily. While the basic premise of Jesus' message may appear heartwarming and straightforward: love of God, neighbor, and self, the implications of doing so are challenging. The true disciple is called to live radically, and often finds themselves at odds with the world or even with those in their own homes.

Holding ourselves to higher standards comes with a price. We have to leave other things behind. It is difficult to be people of faith, hope, and love in a world often fixated with its own fulfillment and self-absorption. Justice, temperance, prudence, and fortitude require sacrifice if they are to be lived with integrity. God's ways are not ours. This becomes crystal clear to those who have enough courage to stand against the tide. Putting love into action requires that we challenge accepted modes of doing business and fight complacency. This is what makes the saints stand out as witnesses. They are simply sinners, just like us, who persevere.

People do not want to be told that they're sailing their ships in the wrong direction. Clinging to their insistence and need to be correct, they can become defensive when challenged. This can happen even with those closest to us. As much as the Gospel calls us to unity, it also can easily create division. When we love seriously, we encounter more than feelings of warmth and acceptance. "What does love look like? It has the hands to help others. It has the feet to hasten to the poor and needy. It has eyes to see misery and want. It has the ears to hear the sighs and sorrows of men. That is what love looks like (St. Augustine)." Love also has the courage and honesty to tell people what they may not want to hear but need to, and model, without wavering, a life of humble, loving, and faithful service. Don't lose heart! There are many examples of faith before us and around us. If Jesus endured the voices of opposition, so too can we. There is no need to apologize for speaking the truth.

Please note: Our prayer list is refreshed every week. Feel free to contact us to include your loved one. Go to <https://holyspiritfremont.org/request-a-prayer/> or call the Parish Office at 510.797.1660
