FROM THE DESK OF DN. BERNARD...

The central focus of today's parable is not the poor man Lazarus but mainly as a warning to the rich.

Who are the rich? WE ALL are the rich man in one way or another.

Riches may not just be through wealth but also through knowledge and intelligence, status or career, influence and power, popularity and friendship, education or religion, health, welfare, and so on. Anyone who has an advantage over someone else is how I would describe a rich person. This kind of superiority would be especially bad if it violates another person's dignity and rights.

Why is the rich man being condemned? What did he do wrong?

There is nothing wrong in being rich especially if we worked hard and acquired our wealth with honesty, and by the grace of God, we become blessed. Blessings are all gifts from God, and they are meant to be shared in our own humble way.

Though the rich man lived in luxury, dressed in fine clothes, and celebrated a feast every day, this doesn't mean that he should be condemned for being rich. Likewise, he didn't drive Lazarus away and he never cursed nor physically hurt Lazarus in any way. The rich man did nothing that was intrinsically evil. However, he still committed a great sin by not doing anything for Lazarus.

Most of us think of sin as doing evil and immoral acts, taking advantage of others, or going against the commandments of God; in other words, doing things that we are not supposed to do.

But sin is not only this. Sin is not only in acts of commission but of omission as well. To put it clearly, it is failing to do what is right in the eyes of God, who is the source of Love.

Lazarus is a symbol of those who are neglected and abandoned, while the rich man represents people who are able but do not care at all.

Yes, we are the rich man if we are self-centered and tend to focus only on our own concerns, and we are never compelled to help at all when we come face to face with a person in need.

Helping others doesn't have to be spectacular. Your concern, compassion, sympathy, or the simple act of being present for the person at the moment of need is how we are to respond.

This parable points us to the Beatitudes.

Blessedness will be for the incapable Lazaruses of this world, while Woes will be for the self-centered/self-righteous rich men of this world. Woe is a condition of deep suffering and unpleasant consequences from misfortune, affliction or grief to the person who doesn't show compassion.

By licking the sores of Lazarus, the lowly dogs had more compassion than the rich man.

Beyond our human, mortal life, how will we live out eternity? An eternal life of great damnation, or an eternal life of perfect happiness and great joy in the presence of God?

"Jesus is our Way, Jesus is our Truth, and Jesus is our Life". "Come, let us follow Him!"

God bless us all.

Dn. Bernard & Jean

HERE'S THE WORD...

A Brief Commentary on the Gospel

26th SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME (Cycle C)

Readings: Amos 6:1, 4-7, Psalm 146:6b-10, 1 Timothy 6:11-16, Luke 16:19-31

The Call to Repentance

The readings are a continuation of the lessons from last Sunday. In today's readings, God calls us to repent our sins, to practice Christian virtues, and to heed the warning of the One who God raised from the dead because the selfish and thoughtless who ignore human suffering will be held accountable.

In the First Reading, the prophet Amos accuses the rich and powerful of Israel of living in luxury while being blind to the misfortunes of the poor. He warns that their willful self-indulgence and their disregard for their covenant obligations to the disadvantaged will bring about the collapse of the Kingdom of Israel. Have they forgotten that God based His promised blessings of temporal prosperity and protection for Israel upon covenant faithfulness and obedience in demonstrating the love of God and neighbor? What good will material wealth do for them when God lifts His hand of protection, and they find themselves overrun by foreign enemies who will confiscate all their possessions?

The Responsorial Psalm reminds us that through the bounties of nature, the Lord gives food to the hungry. However, sometimes He depends on the hands of the wealthy to distribute it equitably, just as He expects those who love Him to extend His love to those in need. This psalm presents the theme that given all the good things God does, He deserves our trust.

In the Second Reading, St. Paul writes to St. Timothy, encouraging him like a coach urging on his best athlete. Paul calls Timothy "man of God," a title that emphasizes both the office Timothy holds as God's representative to the Christian community at Ephesus and the demands of that office. "Man of God" is an Old Testament title reserved for Moses, David, and the prophets who were God's representatives to His people. Paul tells Timothy that to be an effective Christian leader requires total dedication to God and a fearless witness for Christ. This dedication should operate, says Paul, from faith in God, obedience to the commandments (that is submitting to the will of God), and an awareness of the knowledge that Jesus will return (verse 14-16).

The First Reading serves as an introduction to the Gospel Reading, where Jesus tells the parable of Lazarus and the Rich Man. Jesus' story illustrates His concern for justice and reflects His concern and promised blessings for the faithful poor as well as His judgment of the cold-hearted rich in His Sermon on the Plain (Lk 6:20-26). The contrast in the parable is between the rich man, who had everything he could want in life, and Lazarus, a poor man who had nothing. Ironically, when both men died, their conditions were reversed. In death, God gave Lazarus the justice he lacked in life as he awaited the coming of the Messiah in the company of the righteous. However, the rich man suffered in torment for his sins. It is this reversal of condition that Jesus uses to serve as a warning to the Pharisees of His time and to everyone who despises and neglects the poor and afflicted while only caring about the temporal and with no regard for the eternal.

It is appropriate that these selected Scripture readings on the obligation of the wealthy to feed and meet the needs of the poor come during the late summer and early fall. We tend to think of the summer months as a time of joyful activities. However, in ancient times and in underdeveloped countries in the modern world that have many poor, the late summer to early fall is called "the starving season." In the summer and early fall, the people in ancient times had used up the last of their stores of food from the previous harvest; they had to go hungry and struggle to survive until the fall harvest. The same situation exists in impoverished countries today. Now is a good time to make a donation to Catholic Relief Services or Food for the Poor least you fall under the condemnation of the thoughtless and selfish rich when you face divine judgment and Christ asks you, "Did you feed me when I was hungry?" (Mt 25:31-46; Lk 6:24-25).

"And the Word was made flesh...and dwelt among us."

Peace and Blessings...

Fr. Ken
