FROM THE DESK OF FR. KEN...

The Theme of this Sunday's Readings: All Humanity Shall See the Salvation of God

Today's readings focus on release from captivity and restoration. In the second week of Advent, we continue to turn our thoughts to the "comings" of God the Son in the past and the future. We look forward to celebrating the Messiah's First Advent when all creation rejoiced at His Incarnation, and we also think about His promised return.

In His Second Advent, Christ will return to claim His Kingdom of the Church from its earthly exile, fulfilling God's promise of universal salvation. He will also bring about the Final Judgment for men and women of all nations when He separates the faithful and obedient sheep from the sinful and unworthy goats of humanity's flock (Mt 25:31-46).

God instructed the 8th century BC prophet Isaiah to prophesy to the covenant people concerning their future exile in Babylon. Their exile judgment was divine punishment for their many sins and their apostasy from the Sinai Covenant (Is 39:5-7).

In today's First Reading, after the harsh oracle of the exile, God instructs Isaiah to console the people by assuring them, that while they are making atonement for their sins in exile, He will not abandon or forget them. He reminds them that God is Israel's Divine Shepherd who cares for the sheep of His flock. He will forgive their sins and bring about the release of His people from their captivity. God will prepare the way for their return to their homes in the Promised Land, gently leading them like a shepherd leads his flock. He will not only restore them to the land, but He will restore the peace of His covenant relationship with them.

In our Second Reading from St. Peter's second letter to the universal Church, he warns us that the promised sudden return of Jesus Christ can happen at any moment. The Second Advent of Christ only seems delayed because God, in His mercy, allows time for the entire earth to hear the Gospel message of salvation. Using the imagery of a roaring fire and a cosmic meltdown, the inspired writer describes the Second Coming of Christ when He will return as humanity's divine Judge and inaugurate a new creation.

The old world will pass away, and God will create a new Heaven and earth in which every living thing will flourish in righteousness in the Presence of the Almighty. The knowledge that Christ could come in judgment at any moment should instill in each of us a desire to repent our sins and to persevere in holiness so that He will find us in a state of grace at the moment of His inevitable coming.

In today's Gospel Reading, St. Mark tells us that Israel's historic deliverance from the Babylonian exile prefigures an even greater act of God. It is the promise of redemption made possible for humanity by the Redeemer Messiah, announced by the prophetic voice of the last Old Testament prophet, St. John the Baptist.

Quoting from the Isaiah passage in our First Reading, St. Mark assures us that God the Son came to fulfill the promises of the Old Testament prophets. Jesus came to set Israel and the men and women of all nations free from bondage to sin and death. In the Age of Jesus' Kingdom of the Church, His mission continues in saving the faithful living in this earthly exile.

The Church gathers them into a full restoration of fellowship with God and the hope of a future life in the Promised Land of Heaven. It is a restoration that Christ will complete in His Second Advent, and we need to continually keep our souls in a state of grace in preparation for the glorious event of His return.

"And the Word was made flesh...and dwelt amongst us."

Happy Advent!

Second Collection: Religious Retirement December 9-10, 2023

This weekend's Second Collection is for the annual Retirement Fund for Religious in parishes throughout the Diocese of Oakland.

Please be generous. We thank you for your prayerful support. You are helping those who have dedicated their lives to our faith, formation and evangelization.
